1966 Cavalcade Previews Best In Nation's Designs

Scandinavian designs that are likely to influence the coming trends in home furnishings throughout the world and retrospective exhibits showing how Scandinavians have achieved their pre-eminence in contemporary design will be on view in the four Scandinavian capitals during the twelfth annual Scandinavian Design Cavalcade this October, when a number of other major trade and cultural events also take place.

In Copenhagen, the Cabinet Makers' Guild will hold its fortieth furniture exhibition in the Museum of Arts and Crafts, September 30th to October 16. As a Jubilee Exhibition, it will be the biggest and most varied show ever presented, and will stress the long-standing co-operation between Danish craftsmen and architects which has led to the present high standard in their furniture.

Danish silver, ceramics and textiles will be featured in other Copenhagen programs, including the annual exhibit of the National Society for the Promotion of Handicrafts and a special show by the Arts and Crafts Association at Den Permanente, the permanent exhibition. The Danish Culture Society will offer courses on crafts and architecture in English, and there will be daily Industrial Art Tours to the silver and ceramics workshops. At the Copenhagen Trade Fair, in the new Bella Centre, October 21 to 30, kitchen furnishings, cutlery, textiles, furniture, carpets, lighting fixtures and leisure items will be shown.

Helsinki's principal exhibit is at the Finnish Design Center where the Finns, winners of many international Grand Prix awards, will show furniture, cutlery, jewelry, lighting fixtures, ryijy rugs and ready to wear for women. The last includes the popular Marimekko noted for its clean lines, color and patterns, and Finn-Flare, noted for its strong, radiant color combinations. The International Helsinki Fair, September 22 to October 2, also will highlight Finnish arts and crafts.

But many design conscious visitors will head for Helsinki's suburbs and the garden city of Tapiola to see for themselves why American architects, planners, builders and editors have been singing its praises. Begun in 1951, Tapiola is today a complete town in itself which is hailed for its "superior architecture in a superb setting" and as "a way of life geared to the human being."

In Oslo, the Norwegian Design Center, the largest exhibition center in Europe devoted to design, will feature kitchen and household equipment, furniture and bed accessories, textiles, toys, winter sports articles and a variety of industrial products in its October programs.

Husfliden, the Norwegian association which encourages the cottage industries, such as knitwear, wood carvings, textiles and ceramics, will mark its seventy-fifth anniversary with retrospective displays at the Arts and Crafts Museum and in its own shop.

Cavalcade displays featuring Norwegian silver, enamel, glass and ceramics also will be presented at Forum, the Oslo Handicrafts Association's permanent exhibition; Kunstnerforbundet, owned by the artist's union; and Norway Designs, showcase for the products from Plus, the arts and crafts colony in Fredrikstad, south of Oslo, whose ten workshops are open to visitors.

Stockholm will have special exhibits at Svensk Form, its modern design center. Hantverket, an association of master craftsmen, will present new furniture, and the Swedish Society of Industrial Design will feature varied arts and crafts in the outdoor display cases in lovely Kungsträdgården Park.

The Swedish Cavalcade follows the annual Stockholm Festival September 9 to 25, and also coincides with the Queen Christina Exhibition, which continues at the National Gallery in Stockholm until October 16th and features art treasures reassembled from the museum of many countries. Christina, "the first modern European woman", gave up the Swedish crown in 1654, and the exhibit reflects Europe's culture during her time.

Centennial Flower Named By Assoc

To mark Canada's 100th birthday Cosmos Early Sensation Mixed has been chosen by the Canadian Seed Trade Association as Canada's Centennial flower.

It is to be hoped that this year and next all across the country this brilliant flower will be grown in clumps and solid beds.

There are some very good reasons for the choice. Anything in the nature of a national flower of the country and that is where the Cosmos is especially suitable. It will do well from Newfoundland to British Columbia and in the far north.

It is easily grown, hardy, free flowering and not subject to any special bugs or diseases. It will thrive in almost any moderately bright location and in poor soil or good. It is a real Canadian flower from the seed up. We should be hearing a lot of Cosmos Early Sensation Mixed.

CENTENNIAL BRIEFS

The "DANMARK", one of the world's most beautiful ships, will anchor for a week at Expo '67.

A Danish windjammer and training ship for merchant marine officers, the "DANMARK" will be visiting North American ports and on October 1st, 1967 she will make Montreal her first port of call.

Cyrille Fradette, a 105-year-old retired miller, is anxiously awaiting Canada's Centennial. A resident of St. Damien, a little village 40 miles south of Quebec City, Mr. Fradette told reporters of his enthusiasm when they visited him on his birthday April 16th. He added that he had also planned a visit to Expo '67 but his doctor advised him against this.

However, he hopes to participate actively in other 1967 celebrations of Canada's Confederation and has invited reporters to look him up again next year.

Danes Celebrate Centenary

Hans Christian Sonne, a local vicar, founded Denmark's first consumer co-operative in the town of Thisted 100 years last June 17th — a co-operative that continues to serve its members today.

This was the beginning of what has become the great Danish co-operative movement — serving consumers and farmers, producing and marketing, dealing in all aspects of life.

On June 17th, P. Nyboe Andersen, president of the consumer co-op movement, placed a wreath at the statue of Sonne, while delegates from all over Denmark watched.

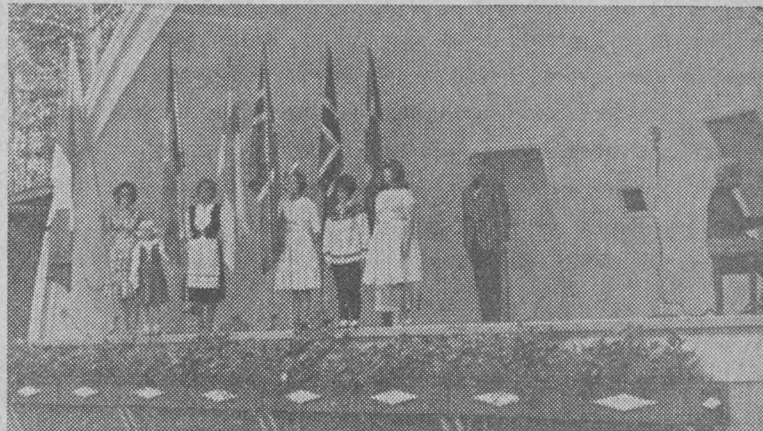

The statue stands by the wall of the co-op, which is the largest food store in town. This has been the site of the Thisted Society for all of its 100 years.

USE OF CENTRE!

It is imperative that the Manager is aware of all meetings and functions planned to be staged at the Scandinavian Centre. Should you plan to have a committee meeting, practice or similar function, it is desirable that he know a week in advance, and that the time and space is registered in his appointment book. The Scandinavian Centre is yours and we would like you to make as much use of the building as possible, but we are certain that you would wish that operations be continued in an economical and efficient manner.

Helge Ramsing,
President.

ANNUAL SCANDINAVIAN DAY HELD AT ELK ISLAND PARK

The thirteenth Annual Scandinavian Day was held at Elk Island National Park on Sunday, July 31, 1966. The variety program from the bandshell began at 2:30 p.m. with Mr. Helge Ramsing (President of the Scandinavian Centre) welcoming the thousands who gathered around. The over-all chairman of the Annual Scandinavian Day was Mr. Paul Karvonen.

The program, with Mr. Knut Svidal as Master of Ceremonies, featured the Eyford family, Viola Wallbank, Wilf and his girls, Delmer Melsness, Hazel Lubbers, Freddie the Freeloader, and a sing-song in which everyone participated. Trophies for the Continental Handball Tournament were presented by Mr. Sig Sorensen during the program. The winners of the Men's Handball were Tornado A, and the winners of the Ladies Handball were Tornado Ladies. They competed with the Freja Men's and Ladies' teams.

Following the program from the bandshell, a series of competitions were held at the ball park. They included a men's horseshoe tournament, a ladies rolling-pin contest, and children's races. The horseshoe tournament was held for the first time at the Annual Scandinavian Day. The winners, out of approximately thirty contestants were Mr. Eino Karvonen and Mr. Leonard Laukkanen, both of Hollow Lake, Alberta. They were presented with individual trophies and their names were engraved on a beautiful 2-foot high travelling trophy which will be on display at the Scandinavian Centre.

Another first for this Annual Scandinavian Day was the Ladies' Rolling Pin Contest. The winners were: first, Mrs. Anja Leino; second, Mrs. Cholak; third was a tie between Mrs. Laura Ramo and Mrs. Martin. These four ladies received prizes for their skill with a rolling pin.

The winners of the children's races were as follows: Girls 6 years and under, Reisa Leino; Boys 6 years and under, Tim Sahuri; Girls 7 and 8, Maureen Marchuk; Boys 7 and 8, Shawn Galloway; Girls 9 and 10, Jane Follereder; Boys 9 and 10, Paul Palle; Girls 10 to 12, Gwen Fry; Boys 10 to 12, Gordon Follereder; Men's Open, Roy Galloway.

Special thanks to Joe Lineham, Olaf Sveen, Hazel Lubbers, Wilf Howarth, Ellinor Gleeut, Ruth Cairns, the Eyford family, Viola Wallbank, Knut Svidal, Delmer Melsness, Reisa Leino, Mary Karvonen, Carolyn Crummer, Dolores von Rosen, Sharon Sorenson, and Selina Sorenson, who participated in the program; and to the following who volunteered their help for the competitions: John Kiovenewa, Knut Svidal, Sig Sorensen, Mary Karvonen, Otto von Rosen and John Fisher.

Solglyt Lodge Holds "Klondike Dance"

Solglyt Lodge held its 2nd annual "Klondike Dance" at the Scandinavian Centre on Saturday, July 16th with 225 people in attendance. The ladies and gent's were all decked out in their "Klondike" finery and judges had a most difficult time.

The judging of costumes was done by Laura Lindsay of C.F.R.N. Winnifred Stuart of the School for Retarded Children and Mr. Lue Russel, President of the School for Retarded Children. First prize for ladies costume went to Phyllis Steen of Edmonton for her lovely two-piece outfit with matching hat and umbrella. The authentic Klondike dress is of two pieces, skirt and blouse, according to Laura Lindsay. The second prize was won by Delcie Kohut of Edmonton and third went to Phyllis Logan also of Edmonton. The prize for the most original went to Esther Brockhoff.

First prize for men's was taken by Reed Johnson, second by our own Ed Ness and most original was won by Carl Nolt.

A cheque for $150.00 was presented to Winnifred Stuart by Ellsworth Halberg, a donation to the School for Retarded Children. Carl Elgstrands orchestra provided dance music and Joe Lineham was Master of Ceremonies. A midnight lunch of waffles was served by Bon Aventure Caterers.

EDITORIAL

From the . . .

PRESIDENT'S DESK

By HELGE RAMSING

The Scandinavian Centre once again played an active part in celebrating Edmonton's Klondike Days. Charles Jensen's original theme portraying past and future Scanin-avian contributions toward building a better Alberta added colour to the Parade. Thanks again Charles!

Due to the efforts of a few of our shareholders headed by our director, Werner Larsen, a shiny new booth was constructed. Because of the inside seating capacity, the booth was well patronized and will be a definite asset in years to come. To Werner and the shareholders who worked so hard and to the ladies who so generously contributed their time serving in the booth, we wish to express our thanks.

During Klondike week the Scandinavian Centre introduced nightly dancing and entertainment . . . These evenings were sponsored by the Scandinavian ethnic groups. The manager, Tom Nielsen, devoted a lot of time and energy to making a successful Klondike Week at the Centre. It is my opinion that the people who attended these dances had a real good time. It is therefore regrettable that a large crowd turned out on Friday night only. During the rest of the week the attendance was rather poor. However, as we are planning to make Klondike entertainment an annual event, we are looking forward to a more enthusiastic response next year.

The Annual Scandinavian Picnic held at Elk Island was a successful and happy occasion. This even was well attended and many old acquaintances were renewed. During the afternoon lively entertainment was enjoyed. Many participated in the races and sporting events of the day. To Paul Karvonen, our Picnic Committee Chairman, to Joe Lineham who was in charge of the entertainment and to all who helped make this day a successful one, may we extend our thanks.

Just a reminder that our Cultural Committee is now preparing for the next Sunday Coffee Party to be held at the Centre on September 11th. We will be looking forward to seeing you there.

Card of Thanks . . . Thanks For

The Help . . .

I would like to give a vote of thanks to Aage Christopherson and Erling Boysen for the wonderful help and co-operation they gave me in building the Scandinavian float for the Exhibition Parade. Neither of these men are members of the Scandinavian Centre or any of the Scandinavian groups, but they gave their whole-hearted support to the project and enabled us to have it finished on time.

I would also like to thank Norm Christensen of Healy Motors, and the truck driver who was such a great help in getting us on the road to join the parade.

Too bad we didn't see many familiar faces from the Scandinav-ian Centre. Were you all on holidays?

Charles Jensen,
Director in charge of Exhibition Float.

The Exhibition booth this year received a response well beyond expectation. For a while I thought we would never make it, but we did.

Some of you who helped, I got to know very well; others came and left before I even knew your names, so for this reason only I will not mention any by name, but without the help of all of you the venture would not have been possible.

Again, a sincere "thank you" for your help.

Werner Larsen,
Chairman of the Exhibition Committee

THE EARTH DID SING . . .

BY ELSIE SIMMONS

The brook in harmony replied
As laughing waters hurried by
With sounds of spring.

A bursting bud — a treble note
A thunder shower made loud report
That this is spring.

The busy bee did hum a tune
Amidst the blossoms at high noon
In sunny spring.

I heard the music in the air
'Twas like a chorus sweet and fair,
The earth did sing.

THOUGHT FOR THE MONTH

The measure of a man is the size of his thoughts.

THOUGHT FOR THE MONTH

Nothing ruins the truth like stretching it.

We believe that Wainwright will be scoring a first among the communities of Alberta in being the first to issue a town flag. A design prepared under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce has been formally approved by the Town Council and the chosen design will thus become our official town flag. The flag will have a blue background with a "rope" ring encircling a brown buffalo. Underneath the buffalo will be the name "Wainwright" in bold yellow letters.

My Trip To Norway With The Scandinavian Centre Charter Flight . . .

It was Friday, May 20th that I left on the first lap of my journey to Norway. From Edmonton we flew north over Lake Athabasca, then over the Hudson Bay, past the southern part of Baffin Island and then over the open sea to the coast of Greenland. The fog was thick and we could barely see the mountains. It had been kind of dusk until then, but as we came closer to Greenland it became lighter. From Greenland, we flew to Keflavik, Iceland and touched down there. Most of the passengers took advantage of this stop to step out and get some fresh air and refreshments. While we were there the Icelandic cleaning crew came aboard and cleaned the plane.

Shortly after we left Iceland we were served breakfast. We then discovered that our watches had to be reset as we had passed into another time zone. We were all impressed by the politeness and care given to us by the Pacific Western personnel on the flight.

We got our first sight of the Norwegian coast about 10:00 a.m. Norwegian time. It still remained foggy and we could not see much except the mountain tops. Nearer the valley we were able to sight ground in a few places, but it all seemed to be covered with snow. As we came closer to Oslo we got more glimpses of land and lakes, and finally sighted Oslo Fjord. We landed at Fornebo Airport about 11:30. I was the last to leave the plane as my wheelchair was checked. The Norwegian stewardess who wheeled me to the terminal thought my Norwegian was pretty good considering that I had been away for thirty-seven years.

I was met by my sister and niece. I recognized them quite easily from pictures I had. A cousin and my brother and family then arrived and we all drove to my sister's apartment at Lambertsæter and had coffee and Norwegian pastries, and took pictures. From the apartment, which was on the tenth floor we had a good view of the Bunde Fjord and parts of the city. I stayed the night and had my first sleep since leaving Edmonton. The next morning my brother took my sister Kare and I to his place at Langhuse, just outside Oslo. It was a very beautiful drive through the city and countryside. My sister-in-law thought I had changed very little since I left Norway. After supper my nephew Amund showed us some movies. They showed the old copper mine up home in Folldal, and the cable bucket line that carried ore from the mine to the railroad station at Alvdal 26 English miles away. The bucket line, when it was built in 1905, was the longest of its kind in the world at that time.

After five days we left for my old home. We boarded the Trondheim Express and the train started on its way through Oslo. We saw nothing of Akerselva that now is all covered up and runs out to the sea through a tunnel, but I thought of Trysilknut, the great skier, who was once on his way to Oslo from Kongsvinger where he met Ole with his driving horse that was going the same way to Oslo. Ole said that he bet a pot of hrennevin that he was going to beat Knut to Oslo, but when Ole drove over Akerselva he met Knut who said "I shall go back home tonight". The distance from Kongsvinger to Oslo is about 45 English miles.

We soon passed Strommen and the Lake Oieren that was at its highest flood crest since 1937. The lake level had started to recede at Lillestrommen but people were still rowing boats between the buildings. Oieren is a lake on the river Glommen, the longest river in Norway, with its source at Aursund Lake on the Roros Mountain Plateau, and it runs into the sea at the city of Fredrikstad about 50 English miles south of Oslo.

Our next stop was at Eidsvold, not very far from where the Eidsvold Building stands. This is where the Norwegian Constitution was written in 1814. Next stop was Hamar, and on our way we passed Minnesund and saw the River Vorma that empties the Lake Mjosa out into the River Glomma. The city of Hamar is a railroad junction with one line running across the Dovre Mountain to Trondheim City, and the other line, which we travelled, goes on to Elverum. On the way we passed the town of Loten where the famous Loitens Aquavit is made.

Upon arriving at the town of Elverum we met the River Glomma again. The city has, among other things, the Glummdals Folkemuseum, with many old buildings, and they also received from the will of Helga Vaerengsoasens a library of about ninety thousand volumes. The town itself except for the hospital and a Red Cross station, was completely bombed out in the German invasion in 1940. It has a soldiers' training camp "Terningmoen" right by. From Elverum north we ran into some of Norway's richest timber lands and the old logging camps used to have log buildings with the fireplaces in the centre of the dirt or heaved rail roof. There was just a square hole in the ceiling for the smoke to escape. The bunks were all lined from the wall with the feet toward the fireplace. The men slept on spruce boughs or moss or slough hay. The best part was that they could cook their flapjacks in the pan and flip them through the hole in the ceiling, run outside and catch them and they would be well cooled off for eating. They were big pancakes — only one in the pan and a piece of port in the middle of it.

This is the country where men like Naevercount Ola and Flotirs Lars wandered. Naevercount Ola came from Solor and in his pure Solor dialect his first opening of conversation was "Asarub er det mii skaug her i bigda". He got his name from the Naeverkudnt he always carried with him on his back. It was made of birch bark about 3½ feet square and 1 foot wide, with shoulder straps, and cross braided with 2½" strips of birch bark, and made with a cover so that it was practically waterproof.

Ola had money in both the Tynsetbank and Elverum Savings Banks, and when he visited his girl friend and showed her the savings books she said "Now we will soon have to get married Ola", but Ola generally answered that there was really no hurry. Flotirs Lars was known from the writer Jakop Breda Bull's writings for his furious leap into the boat that was drifting with a 2-year old child in it.

Our next stop was Rena Station where the river Rena joins the Glommen as the biggest tributary from the east. Then came Atna where a road leads to Atnasjon (Atna Lake) and Folldal Valley, my home valley.

We went by train past the station Koppang that in the old days was a division point. From there we reached the place where the valley narrows and comes to Barkald Station where you could see the cleft in the mountainside named Jutulhugget, said to have been made by a giant who wanted to lead the water from Glommen into the River Rena on the other side of the mountain. Most likely the cleft is the result of the last glacier age in Europe when big lakes got dammed up by the receding glacier ice.

The next stop was our destination Alvdal, and two nephews met me. It was Saturday, May 28th, and at several farms, flags were flying to show that a wedding was taking place, but at once place the flag was flying at half mast to show that a funeral was in process. We passed "Einabu" which belonged to Ivar Mortenson the author. There I saw the first horse since arriving in Norway. We went up the valley and at Tomtene you can still see the damage of the great flood in 1797 where a whole farm slid into the river, but no lives were lost. We stopped farther up and said hello to my cousin who was also my Godmother, and my cousin who was my childhood playmate, confirmed the same day I was.

Here the valley widened and you could see the mountains in the background. We passed the bridge over the River Kakkella that was washed out during the spring flood this year.

After a half hour drive we were home with my nephew Einar Brandsens, where my sister and I stayed while we were in Folldal. Early next morning an old school chum came over to talk to me, and it being Pentecostal Sunday we went to Church where they were having Confirmation services. I met many of my old acquaintances at church, and my old school teacher, Ole H. Bonaesvold.

So now I was home again after thirty-seven years. It felt good.

THE BRIGHT SIDE

If we noticed little pleasures as we notice little pains.
If we quite forgot all our losses and remember all our gains.
If we looked for people's virtues and their faults refused to see.
What a comfortable, happy, cheerful place this world would be.

MEASURE UP

Your greatness is measured by your kindness.
Your education and intellect by your modesty.
Your ignorance is betrayed by your suspicions and prejudices.
Your real calibre is measured by the consideration and tolerance you have for others.

DANIA DOINGS

DANIA is opening the social season with a Supper Dance on Friday, September 16th. The supper will be a sitdown affair with traditional pickled herring, sandwiches and what goes with it. This setup has been requested by numerous people, so we hope for a large turnout; but be sure to obtain your tickets in advance, as no tickets will be available at the door, neither for the supper or the dance. It has been decided to turn over the net proceeds from this party to the Ansgar Danish Lutheran Church. Please give us your support and bring your friends.

Remember tickets are not sold after September 10th, as we must know how many people will be there in order to tell the cook. See the advertisement on the back page.

After a nice long holiday, we hope the ladies will be willing and ready to cope with the winter's activities and we hope to see "BIKUBEN'S" Ladies to our next meeting on Monday, September 19th, as we have some new things lined up for the winter season. Come as you are and let us hear how your holiday was spent, coffee will be served and donated by Vera Neilson, so don't bring anything this time, but just come, you are all welcome.

Have you noticed the cheap fare to Copenhagen? Are you not taking this trip? There won't be any Charter Flight for Christmas so take advantage of this and if interested hurry to contact Vera Neilsen, as there are still a few seats left.
